

Student No. 1,000 At College

DAVID MOHLER, center, caused something of a flurry when he appeared at Porterville college Tuesday afternoon. He turned out to be the 1,000th student to enroll at the college this year, which brought about the flashing of press cameras and a special welcome from Paul Kercher, left, college vice president and dean of student personnel, and Orlin Shires, college president. Mohler is a 1962 graduate of Porterville high school; he previously attended Porterville college for a semester, but dropped out to work. He is now employed full time at the Porterville State hospital - working a night shift so he can attend college. He is pointing toward a nursing major and the earning, eventually of an R.N. (Farm Tribune photos)

Lombardi, Wilcox, Fisher Ranches Scheduled On County Cotton Tour

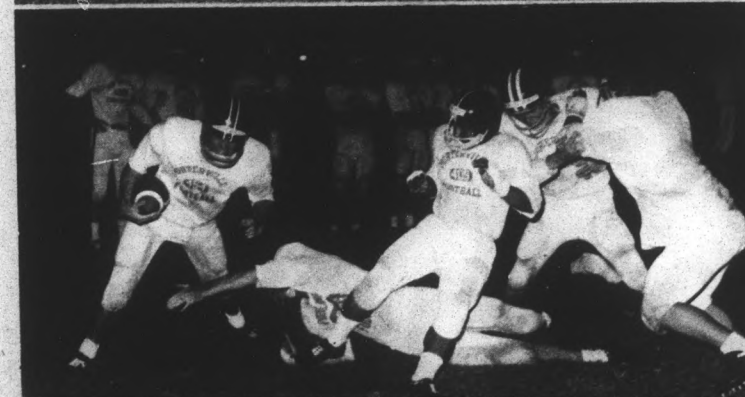

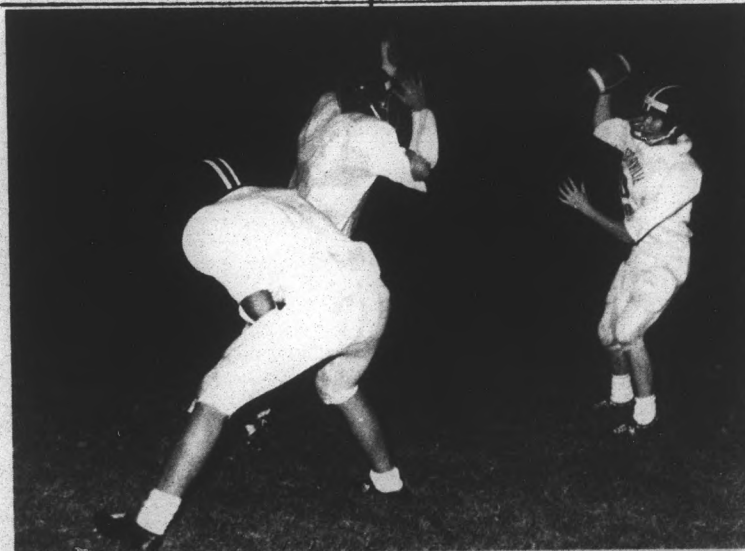

VISALIA - Three southeastern Tulare county ranches will be visited tomorrow, September 15, during annual Tulare County Cotton tour. All persons interested in any way in the cotton industry are urged to attend by Farm Advisor Alan G. George.

CITRUS PEST DISTRICT MEETING SET

TERRA BELLA - Citrus growers in the Southern Tulare County Citrus Pest Control district will meet Monday night, September 18 to decide whether or not the district will share in a $150,000 "excess budget" item proposed by the Central California Citrus Pest Control agency, of which the local district is a member.

The meeting is scheduled for the Terra Bella Memorial building, starting at 7:30 p.m. All citrus growers within the South-

HANG ONTO YOUR HATS FOR A WILD TEN-WEEK RIDE

Hang on to your hats, it starts Friday and once it's underway it is a wild ten week ride. "It" is the 1967 football season and the Porterville High School Panthers blast the lid off Friday night when they travel to Tulare for an opening contest with Tulare Western. Saturday night the Porterville College Pirates uncap their season when the College of The Sequoias Giants march into Jamison stadium to resume the cross-county rivalry.

The Panthers will be sporting the new look given them by Bob Otto, who steps up to head varsity

PORTERVILLE JUNIOR CHAMBER SHOOTING FOR FIRST-PLACE COMMUNITY EXHIBIT AT FAIR

PORTERVILLE - First place - nothing less. That's the goal of Porterville Junior chamber of commerce members as they plan the Porterville community exhibit for the 1967 Tulare County fair that opens Tuesday, September 19 for a run through the following Sunday.

Joe Faure, junior chamber president, says that Porterville will be competing with Visalia, Lindsay, Tulare and Dinuba in the large booth division. He says that he expects 450 farm produce entries from the Porterville community.

Judging of produce is slated for Monday, September 18; judging of booths is set for the opening day of the fair, after which winner and placings will be announced.

Interior of the fair building that in past years has housed not only community exhibits, but other exhibits as well, has been remodelled and this year only com-

Water System Being Installed At Scicon Camp

VISALIA - Installation of a water system involving the laying of 3,000 feet of pipe at Scicon, north of Springville, was described by Charles Rich, director of Scicon, at a meeting of the Tulare County Board of Education last week.

He said that repairs to roads and facilities have also been completed, and reported that extension of the Science and conservation camp service has been extended to 6th grade students in other counties, but with priority of use going to Tulare county school students.

County Planning commission will hold a public hearing September 20 to consider a zone plan for the Visalia city fringe area.

Springville 4-H Program Planned For Coming Year

SPRINGVILLE - Fifteen members of the Springville 4-H club met September 4 to plan the year's program for the club, including the preparation of a window display as Springville's participation in National 4-H week.

First regular season meeting of the club was held in the Memorial building Tuesday.

We Were Wrong!

Last week, in We Only Heard, we commented generally on tax trends, including those in the Porterville high school district.

We were, post haste, called to task by Tom Van Groningen, district superintendent, who said we were all fouled up in our mathematics. To set the record straight, we herewith reprint Tom's letter:

September 8, 1967

Mr. William Rodgers, Editor
The Farm Tribune
Porterville, California

Dear "Bill:"

This correspondence is a follow-up to our telephone conversation of September 7, 1967, relative to the statement in the Farm Tribune regarding a comparison of 1966-67 and 1967-68 tax rates for the Porterville High School and College operations. The statement in the Farm Tribune implies that the tax rate will increase a net .37¢. The facts below will substantiate that, based on last year's actual tax rate and this year's projected tax rate, the tax payers of the Porterville High School District will, in reality, experience a net decrease of .0432¢ for the combined operation of the high school and the college.

	1966-67			1967-68 (projected)			Net Change
	General Purpose	Overrides	Total	General Purpose	Overrides	Total
High School	*1.60	.2132	1.8132	*1.60	.17	1.77	(.0432)
College	.35	.07	.42	.35	.07	.42	0
TOTAL	1.95	.2832	2.2332	1.95	.24	2.19	(.0432)

* Includes tax levied for building purposes.

The 1967-68 tax rate figures identified above are projections and may be modified slightly by the county auditor; however, we do not anticipate more than a one-half cent variance.

The above figures do not include the .1745¢ bond rate levied in fiscal year 1966-67, nor do they include this year's projected .18¢ debt retirement levy. Should you need further information, please feel free to give me a buzz at your convenience.

Sincerely,

Tom Van Groningen

IS CESAR TAKING OVER AGRICULTURE?

By JAMES DORAIS

Cesar Chavez, the charismatic Mexican-American whose successes in organizing California farm workers shook up the AFL-CIO to the point where the union took him over, has had enormous national publicity.

A Chavez-sponsored theatrical troupe has produced an off-Broadway revue in New York, to rave reviews by the critics.

Chavez has won powerful friends — Walter Reuther and Senator Robert Kennedy, to name two — and has achieved strong support from segments of the Catholic and Protestant churches.

Under Chavez' leadership, the AFL-CIO's United Farm Workers Organizing Committee has signed contracts with five large wine growers, and has defeated the Teamsters in a jurisdictional battle.

Is all of California agriculture about to come into line? Not necessarily.

Chavez' successes, so far, stem from two strategies. In the first instance, he abandoned the traditional union organizing techniques which were getting the old line unions nowhere, and gathered followers by selling farm unionization as a civil rights "cause".

In the second instance, he carefully picked his targets, singling out large wine growers who marketed their products under identifiable brand names subject to effective consumer boycotts.

Wine, however, represents a relatively small proportion of California's huge agricultural production. Most processors do not grow their own crops, but purchase from hundreds of individual growers. And while the five growers that have been picked off by Chavez are large, there are approximately 80,000 growers left to go, each of whom presumably would have to be worked on one by one.

Meanwhile, the Kern County town of Delano, the scene of Chavez' successes, is described in the current issue of California Farmer as "a town split asunder and riddled with fear."

Chavez maintains about 125 to 150 people on the picket lines at farms whose owners have not capitulated. Most of the pickets, according to Delano's mayor "have never worked on a farm in their lives."

Chavez' people, the mayor charges, are above the law. Efforts of local authorities to enforce building and sanitation codes, or even traffic regulations, are frustrated by federally sponsored attorneys of the California Legal Rural Assistance.

One major unionized grower has cut his payroll by a million and a half dollars, and the number of workers employed in mid-August from 800 last year to 50 this year.

Eighteen hundred acres of grapes, California Farmer reports, "have been pulled out in the Delano area since the strike started and no new vineyards have been started."

SACRAMENTO - California's 1967 cotton crop is forecast on the basis of conditions and prospects as of September 1 at 1,225,000 bales, according to the California Crop and Livestock Reporting service.

This is about the same as the 1,228,000 bales produced in 1966 but 30 per cent less than the 1961-65 average of 1,753,000 bales. With 590,000 acres for harvest the yield per acre is indicated at 997 pounds compared with 952 pounds last year and 1,099 the 5-year average.

California's cotton crop made good progress during August and has made up part of the lateness due to cold wet weather at planting time. Growers rate the crop still 2 to 3 weeks behind normal development. A heavy set of bolls is reported and a few open bolls have appeared in early planted fields.

Bollworms are building up rapidly in the San Joaquin valley and are difficult to control. The pink bollworm is causing serious damage in infested desert areas. Growers have about completed irrigation and are concentrating on insect control.

Because of the lateness of the crop, picking is not expected to start until about the middle of September on the earliest fields.

United States total cotton production is forecast at 8,185,000 bales, 15 per cent less than last year's total of 9,575,000 bales and 45 per cent below the 1961-65 average of 14,935,000 bales.

BROADVIEW GIN WINS AWARD

FIREBAUGH - Broadview Cooperative gin has been awarded the California Cooperative Cotton Gins association's perpetual trophy for the highest grade and staple index in the San Joaquin valley, it was announced by Ken Wegis, president of the association. "The purpose of this award," Wegis stated, "is to recognize yearly the cooperative gins in the San Joaquin valley which process Acala cotton in such a way as to produce premium returns for the grower's cotton."

PRE-POURED WALLS go up as construction of expanded facilities at the Porterville Citrus association on E street

vide new de-greening and holding rooms with a 32-car capacity; 10-car capacity cold storage rooms; 7,000 square feet of order makeup area; and four loading docks to handle "big line" trucks.

Law Officers' Mutual Aid Plan Being Formulated

VISALIA - A county-wide mutual aid agreement that will join together all Tulare county law enforcement agencies to meet local emergencies is in its final planning stages in Tulare county, with Sheriff Bob Wiley as coordinator.

The pact involves all city police departments in the county, the sheriff's office and the Tulare county unit of the California Highway patrol. Assisting with organization is Fran Torigian, Porterville chief of police.

Object of the plan is to have a force of men and equipment available for activation in a minimum amount of time for service as a unit to cope with such emergencies as floods, fires, or civil disobedience, when the local police force involved is not large enough to handle the problem.

PRESTRIDGE NEW GINS MANAGER

BAKERSFIELD - Ron Prestridge has been appointed secretary-manager of the California Cooperative Cotton Gins Assn., it was announced by Ken Wegis, president of the association. Prestridge, a graduate of Fresno State college in economics, was formerly an assistant gin manager with the San Joaquin Cotton Oil company.

TEENAGE CLASSIFICATION FOR KNITTERS AND CROCHETERS OPEN IN 1967 TULARE COUNTY FAIR

TULARE - Teenage knitters and crocheters for the first time will have a chance to vie for national honors as Art Needlework experts in the 1967 National Wool Needlework contest, now entering its fifth successive year.

The new Teen division, open to entrants between the ages of 13 and 19 was inaugurated by the Contest's two sponsors, the National Hand Knitting Yarn association and the American Wool council, due to the enthusiastic endorsement of knitted and crocheted fashion by the younger set many of whom have taken to making their own.

The contest will continue to offer classifications for adult needleworkers also. Both teens and adults can participate on the initial local level, which is the first step towards competing in the national judging by submitting their entries for local judging at the Tulare County fair, September 19-24.

In the newly inaugurated

Teen classification, entrants will submit sweaters, either knitted or crocheted. The sweaters will then be judged for first, second and third place awards with the first place blue ribbon winner at this Fair eligible to submit her entry for consideration at the national level against other Teen classification winning designs from Fairs across the country. At the national judging of these winning Teen entries, three Teen winners will be chosen, for first, second and third place, with the first place blue ribbon winner automatically designated as the Teen Grand National champion.

The Teen Grand National Champion will receive a three-day trip to New York, accompanied by a parent or guardian as well as a special cash award.

There are 77 State-supported fairs in California, including the California State Fair and Exposition, two citrus fairs, 24 county fairs, and 50 district fairs.

Farm Sales Hit $5.3 Billion

From Daybell Nursery By John

This time of year you should serve breakfast on paper plates and move outside to enjoy our early morning weather. It's cool, the air is clear, and you have the whole world to yourself. Between the change of seasons and the influx of smog this may not last forever so you better try it now.

While burning the paper plates and being revitalized by all the fresh air you might give thought to fall planting. This may involve a little work but it's pleasant work and it may keep you away from the phone. This last is important because this is the season for seeking new committee members, chairmen, and room mothers.

To help you plan your fall planting are many beautiful bulbs from Holland, lovely bedding plants from Visalia, and smog hardened shrubs from Southern California. All of these have been gathered together on "E" Street in Porterville and may be exchanged for money, credit cards, or other promise to pay.

Another addition to the lazy gardeners dream is the knee-high sweet pea. These provide long stemmed sweet peas on bushes that do not require stakes, trellis, or state aid for support. You just plant the seed, fertilize with bone meal, and stand back. Available seven days a week on "E" Street, Porterville.

NOTED ORGANIST TO APPEAR IN POPLAR CONCERT

POPLAR - The noted young organist, Aran Vartanian, of Fresno, will appear in concert at the Poplar Methodist church, Sunday, September 17, at 4 p.m. He will perform on the church's new Moller organ.

Vartanian studied at Fresno State college under a full scholarship, and at present is a student of Richard Purvis, organist and master of choirsters at Grace Episcopal church in San Francisco.

Mrs. James Hare, organist at Poplar Methodist church, is in charge of arrangements for the concert, which will be followed by a reception hosted by the Tulare County Music Teachers' association.

Mathias Bill Would Limit OEO Politics

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Bob Mathias (R-Visalia) has introduced legislation that would limit political activity on the part of workers in poverty programs by amending the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

"Every day," Mathias stated, "new areas are uncovered in which poverty program workers are either misusing their positions as government employees or working on questionable projects totally unrelated to the goals of the War on Poverty. It is my feeling that the time has come for the Congress to put some limit on these activities, so that the poor, rather than union organization and demonstrations, will receive the benefit of the taxpayer's dollars."

The bill, which Mathias co-sponsored with 24 members of the House, would prohibit OEO workers from participating in any political activities in partisan or non-partisan elections and also from working for the election or defeat of any candidate.

"The OEO should welcome the passage of this bill," Mathias said. "In the past, they have had very little control over the activities of their employees, but now law will set strict limitations."

California annually exports more than one-half billion dollars worth of farm products.

Citrus Pest

ern County Citrus Pest Control district are urged to attend, since, according to district directors, their action as to approval or disapproval of the excess budget item will hinge on attitude of growers at this meeting.

The district extends from the Kern county line on the south to Welcome road, north of Porterville, on the north.

The $150,000 excess item in the Central California Citrus Pest Control Agency budget is said by some directors of that agency to be needed to complete a program involving three sprayings of red scale infested citrus acreage in the agency area that includes Tulare, Fresno and Kern counties citrus producing districts.

Directors of the Southern Tulare County Citrus Pest Control district state that they will have to borrow about $31,500 to meet the district's share of the excess budget item if they go along with the plan. This is in addition to the district's budget commitment of $121,464.12 for the year's operation.

Recently, the Tulare county grand jury was critical of the Central California Citrus Pest Control agency for spending beyond its budget during several years since the agency was formed in 1960.

A number of Tulare county citrus growers have also been critical of the Central Agency because of alleged lack of adequate red scale inspection in the county; lack of adequate information to growers from agency directors; failure of the agency to operate within its budgets; and the paying of a disproportionate share of agency cost that in effect subsidized north Tulare county and Fresno county growers.

The Central California Citrus Pest Control Agency is composed of five "local" citrus pest control districts: The Southern Tulare County district that is meeting in Terra Bella Monday; the Tulare County Red Scale district that covers the county from Welcome Road, north; the West Fresno district and the Central Valley district in Fresno county; and the Kern County district.

Purpose of the Central Agency now is primarily to find, control and eliminate red scale infestations in citrus orchards. The Central Agency is also involved with removal of Quick Decline infected trees, however, this part of the program is not the major issue in the Monday night meeting.

Appearing at Terra Bella will be members of the advisory committee of the Central Agency: Dr. G. E. Carman, department of entomology, Citrus Research center, University of California at Riverside; Dr. E. C. Calavan, department of plant pathology, Riverside; Karl W. Opitz, agricultural extension service; and William Shilling, head of the pest control bureau of Sunkist Growers.

Attending also will be Jack M. Dungan, of Exeter, chairman of the Central Agency board, and Dick Butcher, manager of the Central Agency. Maps will be available, it is stated, showing red scale infested areas, treated areas and inspected areas.

FILTER PLANT IS CONSIDERED

TERRA BELLA - A plant to filter domestic water used in the Terra Bella townsite is under consideration by directors of the Terra Bella Irrigation district.

Situation at present is that four of the five districts making up the Central Agency have pretty well agreed to go along on the $150,000 excess budget item. Only the Southern Tulare County Citrus Pest Control district board is calling a meeting of its growers to discuss the issue.

On this board are: William Randolph, chairman; Darrell Byers, secretary; Joe Faure, Bill Bennett and Tony Cemo. Bennett and Cemo are also members of the Central Agency board.

It is quite likely that the Terra Bella meeting discussion will expand beyond the question of the budget excess item to include general operation and effectiveness of the Central Agency.

Sweetpotato harvest is active in the Arwater-Livingston area.

Wine grapes are coming on late in the San Joaquin valley.

Time Out

thers the long gainer if given even a hint of daylight.

The quarterbacking chores are still up for grabs, but Richard Bland, a highly poised sophomore, could draw the starting assignment Friday night. Tough Mark Pixler, who played guard and middle linebacker last year, stands ready to fill-in should Steve Brown's knee fold.

The Panther line has some returning experience in Reggie Castrillo, Everette Rabbon, Jeff Rogers, Jim Henson, Chris Beckley and Jim Wilderson. The big question, and one that will probably spell out just how successful the Panthers will be this year, is how tough will the defense be? The offense is going to score points, an array of running backs such as Otto's can't be held back for long. But, the offense will need help from a hard-nosed defense. My guess is that Coach Otto will build a defense to compliment his shock troops.

Out on south Main street things are starting to happen. The noise that you hear there is not traffic on the Springville highway, it's the enthusiasm of Porterville college football practice under new head coach Sim Iness. The Pirates seem to like playing the game this year and they have the troops to do it. Big Sim has rounded up a few horses from the southern San Joaquin valley and it looks like football is coming back at PC.

The Pirates have some big boys, (Chuck Stull, 6-6 and 245 pounds, Roger Castaneda, 6-0 and 240 pounds, Ted Freund, 5-11 and 240 pounds, Don Richardson, 6-0, 230 pounds) who look like they came to play ball.

The fine size up front is complemented by a bevy of quick running backs and split ends. Andy Gabaldon, a 175 pound halfback who played on Delano's very tough championship eleven last year, has shown the determination and fleetness that could give the Pi-

"OLDE ENGLISH FAIRE" AT COLLEGE ON NOVEMBER 4

PORTERVILLE - Porterville college will sponsor an "Olde English Faire" this fall involving plays, music, strolling minstrels, dancing magicians, puppets, and stalls selling cider, punch, tarts, cakes and hand-crafted goods.

The Faire will be open to all in the community, and individuals and organizations interested in participating are being sought now.

The event, which is to be held on Saturday, November 4 from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., is designed to recall the merry fairs of the Middle Ages and Ren-rates the big play from anywhere on the field. Sim takes a largely freshman team into the football wars this year and they will make mistakes. But, they are quality freshmen and if they learn fast, we could have a contender here in Porterville this season.

aissance when towns people gathered to bargain and to be entertained by minstrels, processions, jugglers, games and sellers of numerous goods.

Two stages will be erected on the campus. One will be for the two full-length plays to be produced for the event, as well as music and dancing. These will run continuously throughout the day.

The other stage will be for short plays, such as "St. George and the Dragon," and magicians, singers and other performers.

In addition, there will be a Cider Garden where fairgoers can relax and eat and drink, as they did in the fairs of old.

Strolling players will wander the fair-ground, and here and there jugglers, actors and other performers will set up, perform, then ask for donations, as wandering minstrels and troubadors did throughout the Middle Ages.

Booths will also be set up for the sale of food, candies, drinks, hand-made goods, flowers and other goods.

Everyone involved will be in the dress of the Middle Ages, and the grounds will be decorated with banners, heralds and signs.

Admission prices will be low, as will be concessions, drinks and food.

The event is being sponsored by the college's Division of Fine Arts. Anyone interested in participating in any phase is invited to call the division (784-3130, Ext.54) or attend the first general meeting, Monday September 11, at 7 p.m. in the College theater.

Performers, those interested in booths and those interested simply in joining in the activities are all welcome, it is stated.

ARCHERY SEASON CLOSES SUNDAY

SACRAMENTO - Special archery inland bear and deer season closes Sunday, however, archers can still go after game during the regular season that opens September 23.

Harvest of sweet corn is active in the San Francisco bay area.

County Tour

ing test under the San Joaquin Valley Continuous Cotton Variety testing program will be discussed.

Following "free choice" lunch in the Tulare area, the tour will move to the Anthony Cardoza ranch, one-half mile north of avenue 192 on road 68, Tulare, 1:30 - 2:00 p.m. to see an advanced strain test conducted by the Shafter Research station.

At the Don Davis ranch, one-half mile north of Waukena on road 28, 2:15 - 3:30 p.m. subject will be breeding evaluation for wilt tolerance, world collection of cotton being tested for wilt resistance, and systemic fungicide for wilt control.

At the Lawrence Taylor ranch, corner of road 116 and avenue 392, Cutler, 4:00 - 4:30 p.m., subject will be cultural practice studies for Verticillium wilt.

General idea of the cotton tour is to show and discuss the coordinated program in Tulare county aimed at finding an economical solution to cotton production problems, according to George.

He states that disease and insects in cotton have been an important factor in production losses to Tulare county growers in recent years, posing a serious economic threat to many growers.

An intensive investigation by University of California and U.S.D.A. researchers is being conducted in the county to plug the gap between grow-

Hoomaka Lani Planned September 23 By Saint Johns Episcopal Church

PORTERVILLE - A sumptuous luau, pool-side dancing to Island music, no-host cocktail hour, and authentic Hawaiian atmosphere are promised for a Hoomaka Lani that will be presented as a fund-raising event by the Saint Johns Episcopal church the evening of September 23 at the Sunnyside pool.

Honorary chairmen for the event are Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Roth; coordinating chairmen are: Messers and Mesdames James Harrison, Charles Lawson and Aubrey M. Lumley Jr.

Heading committees are: Messers and Mesdames William Joos, hosts; George Wallace, finance; Ben Cole and Mac Williams, tickets; Francis Torigian, food; Richard Fowler and Al Soares, cocktails; James Cone, music.

Sterling Conley and Morris Tharp, equipment; Donald Frazier, publicity; William Blouin and Mac Williams, cleanup; and Leo Wilson, parking.

Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Lykins are heading the decorations committee; Mrs. Gordon Cone is serving as liaison chairman.

Tickets for the event are $20.00 per couple.

Fair Exhibit

munity exhibits will be in this building.

All exhibits will be in the center of the building, rather than built against a wall, making it necessary to change design so that an exhibit can be viewed from three sides, rather than just the front as in past years.

Faure says that Porterville exhibit shelving has been rebuilt on inclining planes to fit the new type of booth. In keeping with general theme of the 1967 fair - "Western Hospitality," theme of the Porterville exhibit will be "Stay For Supper, Neighbor."

The display will be built around an old-time cabin scene, featuring an old-fashioned ranch kitchen.

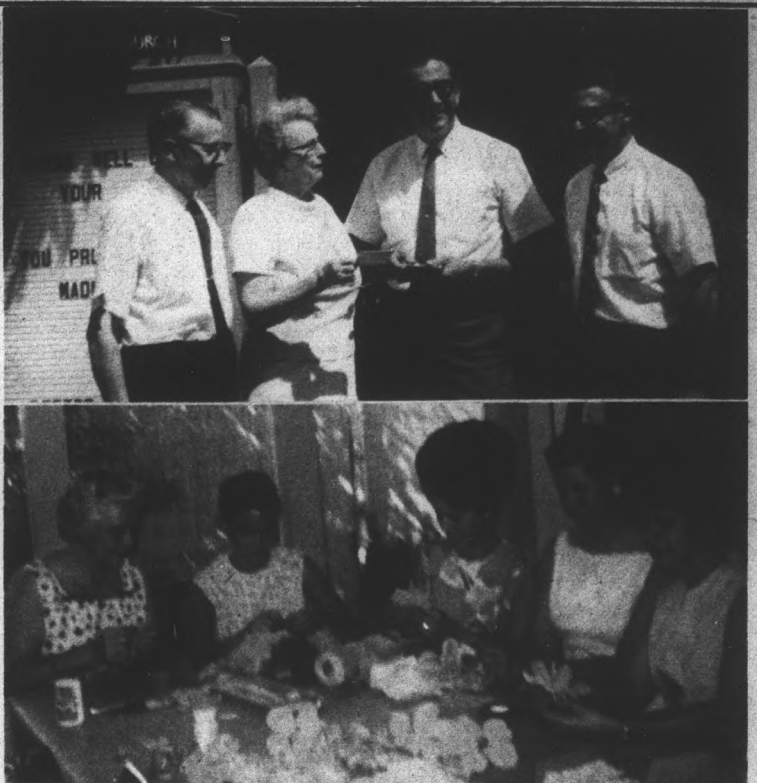

Strathmore will also have a community exhibit in the small community class; Terra Bella, it is understood, will not display this year.

As for the fair itself, directors this week announced admission prices for the 46th annual county fair: General gate, adults, 75 cents, children 12-16 years, 50 cents, children 6-12 years, 25 cents, and children under five years, free.

Grandstand admission for the fair's Destruction derby and motorcycle races: Adults, $1.25, children 6-12 years, $1.00; bleachers, adults, $1.00 and children, 6-12 years, 75 cents.

General admission season passes will be available at $2.50, allowing one person admission through the front gate three times daily during the six days and nights of the fair.

Considerable sunburn damage is expected in county walnuts because of the hot summer.

Parade Theme

members of the Porterville Junior Women's club; this organization will also operate two concessions on Main street on Veterans' day.

A highlight feature of the parade this year will be participation by the full contingent of Teheran Temple Shriners from Fresno, including band, drill team, mounted unit and comedy entertainers.

Improvements in handling of the parade were discussed at considerable length at the regular Monday night meeting of the Homecoming committee, with Ralph Vopat, a parade co-chairman for many years, leading the discussion.

Traditional Veterans' day awards will again be on a multiple basis, with prize list to be topped by a color TV combination stereo-radio.

Members of the Veterans' Homecoming committee are meeting every Monday at 8 p.m. in the American Legion hall, interested persons are invited to attend.

Sponsors of the celebration are Post 20, The American Legion, and Mount Whitney Post 2001, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Barbecue

the community are preparing salad, with Morris Fruit heading this committee; Hack Hutchinson is getting facilities ready for the barbecue.

Ray Holloway will serve as master of ceremonies and will be in charge of special games following the barbecue; traffic will be handled by the California Highway Patrol and the office of the Tulare County Sheriff.

Barbecue tickets are priced at $1.50 for adults; $1.00 for children.

WATER TO L.A. PROMISED BY 1971

TRACY - Northern California water will be delivered to Los Angeles county through the state's $2.5 billion water project by 1971, Governor Ronald Reagan said at dedication ceremonies for the Delta Pumping plant that will boost water from the Sacramento-San Joaquin delta down the 444-mile California aqueduct into southern California.
